

- AgVisionAnytime.com is the software service that links your AgVision financial and inventory data to your own website.
- It gives you the tools to allow your customers secure Internet access to their grain, accounts receivable, and agronomy information from anywhere 24/7.
- Your customers can view and print reports (and download data) on their scale tickets, contracts, stored grain, and grower statements. They can submit grain offers at their convenience.
- Your customers can view and print their accounts receivable information, including invoices and statements, bookings and prepaid balances at any point in time. They can view at a glance and drill down for more detail.
- Your customers can view and print agronomy information, including blend sheets and field maps. You can upload other documents of your choice.
- Using the AgVisionAnytime Mailbox, you can manage and distribute customer specific documents/records/messages to a single customer or groups of customers. They will receive an e-mail notification automatically whenever content is loaded in their AgVisionAnytime Mailbox. For contact management, you can create, save and edit group lists to send targeted mailings to specific individuals or groups of customers.
- All accounts are password protected, and data is encrypted with Verisign.
- Access is controlled and monitored by you.
- Designed for desktops, tablets and smart phones.
